

Chef Joseph Ghazal graduated from the Culinary Institute of America in 2001

The story behind the legend:

Chef Joseph Ghazal, a.k.a. "The Joeyness," received his training from the prestigious Culinary Institute of America. After developing his skills in various great restaurants alongside renowned chefs, Joeyness decided to pursue his dream of having his own establishment. Named after his childhood nickname, The Joeyness Café is committed to preparing high-end quality food at very reasonable prices. To aid Joeyness in his crusade is none other than his Mom, Samira. Together they form the uniquely unbeatable team where wholesome traditional quality Mediterranean food is prepared with what we like to call "a higher level of the Joeyness."
